R 1 Numb. 1049.

The Daily Courant.

Friday, Auguſt 24. 1705.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated Auguſt 18.

Brzeze, July 26.

THE Deputies of the Palatinat of Sendomir, that were taken at Opatow by Monſieur Smiegelski, and ſent hither; have Permiſſion given them to return home, upon their Parole to undertake nothing againſt King Auguſtus. An Aide de Camp arriv'd here ſome Days ago from Dreſden, with Copies of Briefs from the Pope to the Biſhops of this Kingdom; beſides which, he brought one particular Letter in Form of a Bull, whereby the Cardinal Primate is ſuſpended from exerciſing any Archiepiſcopal Juriſdiction or Function, ſo that he cannot aſſiſt in the Ceremony of crowning the new King: And 'tis talk'd the Pope's Nuncio who is here, has appointed (by Virtue of the Power given him in the ſaid Bull,) the Coadjutor of the Archbiſhoprick of Gneſna, to take into his Hands the Revenues of that Dioceſs. The Czar has caus'd a Manifeſto to be publiſh'd, in which he invites all Perſons of what Ranks ſoever to joyn with him for the Defence of the King and the Republick; and threatens terribly thoſe who ſhall offer to aſſiſt in the Congreſs of Warſaw.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated Auguſt 18.

Warſaw, Auguſt 1. The Marſhal of the Confederacy who continued here with one ſingle Deputy, of the Palatinat of Cracow, being inform'd of the Approach of the Poliſh and Saxon Troops, thought beſt to retire Yeſterday to the Camp of the Swedes. The ſame Day about 10 in the Morning, thoſe Poliſh and Saxon Troops having paſs'd the Viſtula, the Swedes, who reſolv'd to fight them notwithſtanding they were inferior to them in Number, march'd to attack them. The Saxons, in Number 1800 or 2000, were commanded by the Generals Schulembourg and Patkul; the Poles and Lithuanians, whoſe Number was 4 or 5000, were led by the Palatin of Vilna, the Referendarius of the Kingdom, and the Caſtellan of Potaneki. The Fight laſted till 1 in the Afternoon. At firſt the Saxons had the Advantage, but afterwards the Poliſh Horſe giving Ground, the Saxons were forc'd to retire, and leave the Field of Battel to the Swedes. The Poles loſt but very few Men, the Saxons ſuffer'd much; the Swedes loſt as many Soldiers, and more Officers: On their ſide General Bonde was kill'd. And on the other the Generals Patkul and Meyt were taken Priſoners.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated Auguſt 25.

Warſaw, Aug. 11. Some new Deputies of the Palatinats of Cracow and Sendomir, arriv'd here the 4th Inſtant, to aſſiſt in the Diet or Congreſs. The 6th the Diet met; the Marſhal of the Confederacy thank'd the new Deputies for coming to it, and after he had inform'd them of all that had been tranſacted in the preceeding Seſſions, the Anſwer of the Cardinal Primate to the Letter the Marſhal had by order of the Diet written to his Eminency to invite him hither, was read; in it the Cardinal gave Hopes he would repair to the Congreſs, when it ſhould be grown more numerous and he could come with ſafety. Then the Subſtance of a Letter, written on the part of the King of Sweden by count Piper, was communicated by the Marſhal to the Aſſembly; it imported that his Swediſh Majeſty had ſent his Commiſſioners, viz. Meſſieurs Horn, Wachſlager and Palemberg, and that they were on their Way hither. This done, ſome Reſolutions paſs'd, among others that another Letter ſhould be written to the Cardinal Primate, to deſire him to give a more poſitive Anſwer as to the Time he might propoſe to arrive here. Then the Aſſembly was adjourn'd to this Day, and we are inform'd 'tis ſince further adjourn'd to the 13th Inſtant. The Swediſh Commiſſioners have ſent Word by their Secretary that they ſhall be here this Evening. The Swediſh Troops receive Reinforcements daily. The Poles, Lithuanians, and Saxons, continue on the other ſide of the Viſtula, waiting to be joyn'd by the Muſcovites, who are advancing this Way.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated Auguſt 25.

Amſterdam, Auguſt 25. 'Tis advis'd from Poland, that the pretended new King Staniſlaus was expected at Lowicz the 11th of this Month, and at Warſaw the 13th, but that was uncertain ſtill when the Cardinal Primate would arrive there. Theſe Letters add, that the King of Sweden being inform'd the Muſcovite Army is advancing towards Warſaw, has reſolv'd to march thither with his to oppoſe them. If this be true, King Auguſtus of Poland cannot be long before he take the Field; for the Advices from Saxony of the 19th Inſtant tell us his Majeſty is at Lubben in Luſatia, and that all his Troops were drawing together into one Body, in Order to act in Concert with the Muſcovites, and prevent the Execution of the Deſigns of the Congreſs at Warſaw.

The Advices we have receiv'd from the Camp of the Swedes in Courland, contradict the Accounts tranſmitted by the Muſcovites of the Action that paſs'd between Riga and Mittau the 26th of July laſt. The following Extract of a Letter from a Swediſh Officer, affords theſe Particulars.

'The 16th of July, about 6 a Clock in the Evening, Count Lewenhaupt having met in Courland, 'the Muſcovite Army commanded by General Czeremethoff, immediately engag'd them. The Fight 'held till a Quarter paſt 10. Our Right Wing of 'Horſe was repuls'd once, and our Left twice: But 'all being ſet right agen by the good Orders Count 'Lewenhaupt gave, we obtain'd at laſt a compleat 'Victory. About 7000 Muſcovites were kill'd on 'the Spot: We took all their Baggage Waggons, in 'number 3000; 13 Pieces of Braſs Cannon, about '40 Standards; and above 100 Priſoners, among 'them a Major and a Captain. General Czeremethoff was wounded, as were alſo the Lieutenants 'General Chambre and Roſe. The Priſoners report, 'that their Army conſiſted of 14000 Horſe, 4000 'Foot, and 2000 Tartars of Calmuck: They all 'fought with great Bravery. Our Army conſiſted 'of no more than 7000 Men, of which near 1000 'fell in the Battle, among them the Lieutenant Gollonels Horn, Jacob Kuhlbars, Danckwart, Count 'Lindſchield; the Majors Helvig, Wrangel; and 'ſeveral Captains and other Officers. The Enemy's 'Foot, of which not 30 Men eſcap'd, were cut down 'in their Ranks, not a Soldier ſtirring from his 'Ground. We reckon that on our ſide were fir'd '120000 Muſquet-ſhot; ſo that had the Action 'laſted longer, the Powder that was diſtributed 'would not have been ſufficient, notwithſtanding 'every Soldier had enough for 24 Diſcharges.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated August 22.

Mittau, July 13. The 26th Instant, a Battle was fought within 3 Leagues of this Place, between 8000 Swedes commanded by General Lewenhaupt and 12000 Muscovites under General Czeremethoff: It lasted 4 Hours with incessant firing on both sides; at length the Muscovites drew off, and retir'd towards Birsen: The Swedes had suffer'd so great loss, that tho' they kept the Field of Battle, yet they found themselves in no Condition to pursue the Muscovites. the rather because 'twas 11 a Clock at Night.

Mittau, August 4. The Body of Swedes commanded by Count Lewenhaupt, is come under the Walls of this Town; and 'tis talk'd some Men are on the March from Riga to reinforce them. The Muscovites are drawing together agen likewise at Bauske, and wait to be joyn'd by Major General Romer with 7 or 8000 Men from Keydan; after which 'tis said they will venture another Battle. Tho' the Swedes had the Victory the 26th Instant, they won it very dear, with the Loss of at least 90 Officers.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated August 28.

Amsterdam, Aug. 28. Letters from Poland of the 14th of this Month, inform us, that Prince Wiesnowiski, who commands the Army of Lithuania, was encamp'd near the River Bug within 8 Miles of Warsaw, and had receiv'd there a Reinforcement of 4000 Men; and that the Saxon Troops lay within 3 Miles of Warsaw, waiting to be joyn'd by the Muscovites who continue their March. King Stanislaus arriv'd at Lowicz the 13th, and the next day was expected at Blonia, which is but 4 Miles from Warsaw. The Deputies that at present compose the Congress at Warsaw, met the 13th in the Palace of the Castellan of Vistic, where they were in Conference 2 Hours, after which the Marshal alone went to the Castle, and adjourn'd the Session to the next day. 'Tis said, that in the forementiond Conference an Adjournment of several Weeks was propos'd, because the Deputies of the Palatinats of Cracow and Sendomir, who were all that had appear'd at the Diet, could not conclude any thing in the Absence of all the rest. On the 14th the Marshal adjourn'd the Session to the 17th. from which day 'tis probable it will be further prorogu'd, till the Sword has determin'd whether the Congress shall continue or break up.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated August 25.

Hamburg, August 21. The 7th of this Month, the King of Sweden march'd from Rawitz, with his Life-Guards and a Regiment of Horse towards Warsaw, where he will form an Army of 20000 Men. The Generals Reenschield and Mardefeld are left near Meserits in great Poland with 15 or 16000 Men, to oppose the March of the Saxon Troops into great Poland. We have no Account of the Motions of the principal Army of the Muscovites.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated August 29.

Dresden, August 22. By Letters from Poland we learn, that the King of Sweden is on the March with his Army towards the Vistula, to meet the Czar of Muscovy and give him Battle. The King of Poland has form'd his Army at Lubben; and Letters that are just arriv'd from Lusatia, say 12000 Men are actually marching towards Guben, a Place on the Frontier of upper Poland; But the Train of Artillery is not yet in Motion.
